Glucocorticoids have been widely accepted to have direct stimulatory effects on pituitary ACTH synthesis. Although their precise mechanism of action is not known, it is widely believed that the stimulation is mediated through a receptor-ligand system that is specific for glucocorticoids. Evidence for receptormediated action of glucocorticoids has been obtained with the synthetic glucocorticoid dexamethasone, the naturally occurring hormone cortisol, and even with the non-biologically active analog, betamethasone. However, the number of binding sites in isolated corticotrophs is only 2-3 times the number of ACTH cells in intact pituitaries, and attempts to demonstrate glucocorticoid receptor immunoreactivity in the adrenal cortex have failed. In this report we describe the use of a novel glucocorticoid receptor gene delivery system to show that ACTH gene expression in the rat adrenal cortex is specifically induced by glucocorticoids. We have also shown that the mechanism of induction involves glucocorticoid receptor mRNA and protein expression in the zona fasciculata.Q: The move constructor of std::queue does not take the value of the argument I have the following code that doesn't compile. #include #include #include using namespace std; int main() { vector v; for (int i=0;
