Features Key:

- Master of Magic: Caster of Magic is extremely balanced for any level of play, making this the perfect choice whether you're new to the game or an expert of the arcane arts.
- The game features support for real-time, turn-based, and turn-based/real-time play so you can switch between the two modes at any time and still keep going.
- Three different classes of magic are at your disposal in your travels in this ever-growing world — magicians, magiks, and warriors.
- Three different rarities are at your disposal (Common, Uncommon, and Rare).

Master of Magic: Caster of Magic Game Description:

Master of Magic is a real-time, action-RPG/strategy hybrid (think of Final Fantasy Tactics/SpellForce mixed) set in a vast realm known as Arborea, a world with 54 different nations. While the land itself is an unknown ancient history to the players currently roaming the landscape, every single nation is literally filled with rich lore and history.

In every single instance of travel through the land in Master of Magic: Caster of Magic, you will start with just enough gold and basic equipment to survive the trek. Obviously, as you complete adventures to the world's major factions, you'll accumulate experience and gold, which in turn will allow you to purchase better gear as you progress through the game.

- You play as a wizard, a magik, or a warrior, with their own unique play style and common class-specific features
- Level 50 difficulty tracks your progress through the game and offers local and online player-versus-player cooperative multiplayer so that you can fight to live, or fight for your life — it's up to you!
- Fulfill certain adventures to earn an experience bonus as either experience or treasure (if you choose to put the magic points into defense).
- You can swap between them anytime you want.

I want to preface this by saying that this is my first video game ever so I'm going to be super excited and clear as I'm learning how to do this whole thing if you know what I mean. Anyway, this is a game I've been trying to make for about a year and a half and I honestly can't remember what I was doing with it at this point but I had thought of this game for a while and I play through my first one at the minute and I didn't want to make just another run of the mill platform game the same as many other games out there but I felt like there needed to be more. So I decided to make a 3rd person platformer and what do ya know, it ended up being a fighting game! Who would've thought. I will let you know as I progress in the game what each character does and maybe how it works in general. That said I have a list of some of the abilities/stats and I'll go through them one by one.

Speed. Speed is how fast you move and how quickly you can get from point A to point B. I'm fairly certain that players will be able to slow themselves down or speed themselves up just like they would their own game.

Accuracy. If you stumble into a wall or jump out into the air, upon landing your accuracy stat will drop by a spot or two and it will increase while you are flying. Once again players will be able to change this.

Stamina. This stat is pretty self explanatory. You will use up your stamina when you are being hit by attack.

Special Attacks. If you strike enemies with your weapons they will be stunned if they're hit within the first 3 seconds of the attack or may cause them damage.

Height. How tall are you? Yup, height is actually kind of important and players can change it once they have unlocked the option. Thing I'm currently thinking about in regards to
